

ABSTRACT

A method includes receiving on a first switching device a message from a second switching device that indicates to slow packet transmission to the second switching device.

20763747.doc